

ICEUR Master Class with Arseni Sivitskiy

Belarus and the new geopolitic position

As the world watched the unfolding crisis in the Ukraine, the Belarusian leadership has quietly redefined its position. In an apparent bid to safeguard the independence of the country, its leaders are moving towards greater openness so that enhanced cooperation comes within reach.

Arseni Sivitskiy, the director of the Center for Strategic and Foreign Policy Studies, a Minsk-based brain trust, will share his thoughts on the new geopolitical strategy and the challenges for Belarus.
